Cleaning the surroundings @ ISME Campus

During the first week of the NSS program, students were taken out of their classrooms for experiential learning. Everyone participated in cleaning the surroundings. It was a very helpful session for students as it taught them how important it is to keep the surroundings clean.

Everyone gathered in the amphitheater and started searching for wrappers, plastic covers, etc. to throw them away in the bin.

This activity was very fun as all the students participated in it with enthusiasm. They picked up the garbage and segregated them before throwing.

This fun filled outdoor activities help us learn how-to live-in society and how important it is to us.

Having such kind of activities in the college will help the students to develop new hobbies and teach them to spend more time with friends and nature.

There are many more activities coming up for which students are excitedly waiting. During these activities students not only teach others or create awareness but also learn many things from the other party.

NSS participants also learn life skills during this period. These lessons will help them throughout their lives.
